You're in the dinner hall, lining up for lunch, but you're really hungry. Your friend is near the front of the line. Should you ask your friend if you can jump in the line by her? How would you feel if somebody pushed in front of you?

You borrow a book from your class. Your water leaks in your bag, damaging the book. When you take the book out of your bag the teacher is busy. You could just put the book back and nobody would notice. What should you do? Why?
